

1.

dum Roma deliberat Saguntum perit

"while Rome debates, Saguntum is in danger"

("Nature does not make [sudden] jumps."

A principle of natural philosophies since Aristotle's time, the exact phrase coming from Carl von Linné.)

"If you have the truth, keep it to yourselves."

- Fernando Pessoa (The author's understanding for Latin American environments)

"Everything in this world is expected, what you have not seen or heard before is your own incompetence."

- Michael Madhusudan Dutta

"When Dutta stayed in Versailles, the sixth centenary of the Italian poet Dante Alighieri was being celebrated all over Europe. He composed a poem in honour of the poet, translated it into French and Italian, and sent it to the king of Italy. Victor Emmanuel II, then monarch, liked the poem and wrote to Dutt, saying, 'It will be a ring which will connect the Orient with the Occident.'"

- Sourced from Wikipedia from a book - The Indian Theatre: Its Origins and Its Later Developments Under European Influence, with Special Reference to Western India by Ramanial Kanaiyaial Yajnik (1933) Ardent Media. pp. 219

2.

quod quidem perquam durum est. sed ita lex scripta est

"which indeed is extremely harsh, but thus was the law written"

("Do not disturb my circles." - The last words attributed to Archimedes (paraphrased from Valerius Maximus' Memorable Doings and Sayings). During the raid of Syracuse by the Romans, Archimedes was busy drawing mathematical circles. He was eventually attacked and killed by a Roman soldier as he was too engrossed in thought to obey the soldier's orders.)

"Crete is the birth of Europe and of its Mediterranean heart; Athens is the re-birth of Europe, its reason of state and the beginning of liberal democracy. Christianity is Europe as a fraternal community that brings together equality and freedom, the matriarchal, communitarian element and the patriarchal, individualistic one. The biggest contribution of Christianity is the notion of "person," which can be defined as the communitarian individual, a human being open to others:

a human or humanized inter-man, different from the animalized, sub-human infra-man and from the inhuman or divine super-man”

- Andres Orteiz

3.

Defensor Fortis

“Defendor of the Force”

("Stranger, tell the Spartans that here we lie, obedient to their laws.")

Above - The Golden/Shushan Gate of Jerusalem

“His Light makes things appear” -Ibn Arabi in Futuhat al-Hikam (A Turkish commentary called Varidat is available on the Internet for those of a more elaborate opinion)

The only other extraordinary book worth the Altaic fortitude is Abdülbaki Gölpınarlı - Melamilik ve Melamiler

Above - Western Golden Gate, Vladimir, Russia

4.

Physician, take care of yourself!

(Mátia pu den vlépode grígora lismoniúde. Eyes that don't see each other frequently are soon forgotten)

One of the primitive observances I can make despite being an outsider to Abrahamic thought processes and reading a lot of there works with interest is a complete lack of talk about that part of the Antahkaran (Antykhera mechanism) which is outside of time. I am still at an unripe age having not crossed 40 and so will only venture so far to say that cyclical nature of time and necessity of food in mortality are connected. And so not only this gold rush in the West is strange to most eyes, even the pious ones as opposed to farming. But that, even that is something deterrential when one crosses the sea of the body and mind and onward to what is called the non-corporeal soul even in the Far East such as Chinese Mandarin psyche.

5.

Degno di nota (Inferno XX. 104) - Dante

Aligheri ("deserving of consideration")

Above - On the Durand line, named after Mortimer Durand from UK whose name can also mean Dante who was alluded to by M.M.Dutta in his Italian to Italian king Victor Emmanuel II

6.

Altamas and prude

“The meaning of life is that it stops”

“All language is but a poor translation”

- Franz Kafka

One of the simplest ways to see what the Christian prerogative to do is to create a lower channel from the sacred hearts to be able to put the less-risen energies of the forehead back into the cycle. But also, after the scientific revolution, to materialize the spirit and higher forces in an abstracted science outside numbers and wholly from the physical realm. Thus, instead of the arts of space manipulation from the Earth, we will actually hopefully many of the trees in the world today, outside to outer inhabitation and not only as a DNA-RNA code which unites everyone into the life force which is the real stuff that is evolving universally and using every creation.

7. Further Reading -

The Sense of the World by Andres Ortiz-Oses

The Occult I Ching: The Secret Language of Serpents by Maja D'aoust

Learn Aramaic and Church Slavonic and then balance them together in meditation (I hope to do the same for an understanding of Christianity)

Passport to Magonia by Jacques Vallee

Saving the Appearances - Owen Barfield

The Philosophers' Secret Fire - Patrick Harpur