

Judenfrage - A History of Tears since World War II

Abstract - The short article seeks to view the questionable nature of narratives since the Second World War, how Zionism started from warmth to decay by the time of Biden administration in US and Zelensky in Europe. The internal movement towards Chabadism and away from the Odessa ideals of Hasidism.

“To be kind is more important than to be right” - Chabad inspired quote

“ ‘The wheeling of the stars is not infinite’ - Jorge Louis Borges “ - Mark Z. Daniewleski in The Familiiar, Part IV

Russia and Israel were the best of allies since the Holocaust and when Ukraine special operations began, things began to become increasingly tense until they collapsed. Today, the situation is similar in all three Abrahamic religions. The Eastern Orthodox and Greek Orthodox Church dominate at Jerusalem sites and Muslim world listens more to Saudi Arabia than the Eastern branches. Judaism too has taken a turn for the stranger by moving towards the Turkish prophecy, in all its dire actions, of thinking like the tunnel Benjamin Netanyahu Brooklyn Chabadism that it is not him, but the events that will rotate him for the prophetic better, clockwise or even counter-clockwise.

From here the Zionist and world history definitely enters the permanent period of post-Naqba Covid isolation where even the Jews tread a path like their fellow men of single books. And the East resource tightfistedly looks on dismayed. But especially Japan.

References -

Closing the Sea - Yehudit Katzir

Idolatry - Yoram Kolarstein